FACULTY SEARCH ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
ROLLINS SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH OF EMORY UNIVERSITY

The Department of Environmental Health (www.sph.emory.edu/eh) at the Rollins School of Public Health of Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia, is continuing a major faculty expansion, in a multi-year search. We seek tenure-track applicants in all areas of environmental health, with particular emphasis in the coming year on global environmental health and environmental epidemiology. Priority areas include health effects of climate change (including energy/sustainability/built environment), infectious disease ecology, environmental health application of “-omics”, risk assessment (including computational toxicology, systems science, use of high-throughput data), environmental biostatistics/methods and environmental health policy (including economics and decision analysis). Candidates for senior positions should have a strong record of scholarship and teaching, a demonstrated ability to secure external funding, and an established, high-impact research program. Candidates for junior positions must demonstrate the potential to become independent investigators.

The Department consists of 16 primary faculty, 11 joint faculty and over 40 adjunct faculty, many affiliated with CDC. The Department has hired 6 tenure-track faculty in the past several years and has achieved recognition for research programs in environmental epidemiology, neurotoxicology, infectious disease ecology, exposure assessment, and risk analysis. The Rollins School of Public Health has emerged as one of the nation's leading public health schools and enrolls over 1000 students in its graduate programs.

Applicants should email letter of interest and CV to: Kyle Steenland, PhD, Professor and Search Chair, kyle.steenland@emory.edu with copy to Robin Thompson, rthom10@emory.edu. Please include Job Vacancy # in application: Assistant Professor, #49544BR; Associate Professor, #49541BR; or Professor, #49539BR. The search is for multiple positions, without fixed closing date. Screening to begin immediately, start dates negotiable. Applicants may request that applications be handled confidentially.
